

Disclaimers

I like the concept behind this thing, but the content is still rather mediocre (particularly, the writing is shit, as measured by any system of valuation for literary language) and incomplete. So of course, in time, the ideas in this piece will be refined and realized as exactly the kind of art that you, particularly, like, and all of its mistakes and failures will no doubt be fixed. Also imagine a clever parody of the Mad Libs™ logo (a somewhat discombobulated smiley face) in the top left, and a more complete imitation of that form in font and in layout.

Birdwatching

Some people like to go _____ birds in _____, whenever they can. To you or _____ this may sound _____ VERB LOCATION PERSON IN ROOM poet _____ ADJECTIVE In fact, the _____ MID 20TH CENTURY AMERICAN POPULAR POETRY MOVEMENT
_____ FIRST NAME Bukowski wrote in his poem " _____ Count", "and I am _____ VERB ENDING IN ED
/ to bird / watching. / / Just _____ NUMBER I'd / let you / know, / _____ INSULT ever to your average _____ PAST TENSE VERB watcher, finding a(n) _____ ANOTHER PERSON IN ROOM's sage grouse, an ivory-billed woodpecker, or a _____ NOUN ed _____ BIRD FAMILY out in the _____ ADJECTIVE PART OF BODY
_____ TERRAIN feels better than _____ ACTIVITY.

Just _____ NUMBER days ago at _____ TIME I was _____ EMOTION ADVERB WAY OF MOVING to _____ LOCATION for _____ ACTIVITY, and already late. But there was some fluffed _____ ADJECTIVE on a _____ NOUN and I stopped to look at it for a _____ QUALITATIVE MEASURE OF TIME, and it made me a little more late.
_____ SENTENCE ABOUT ONE'S RELATIONSHIP WITH FIXED MEASURES OF UNMEASURED LIVED TIME

Some _____ GROUP OF PEOPLE like to use birdwatching as a metaphor - perhaps for the entire _____ ADJECTIVE categorizing enterprise, or maybe more _____ ADVERB to celebrate and / or implicate claims to expert
_____, their arrogance of _____ ADJECTIVE dictionary makers as they point at _____ PLURAL NOUN and name. But maybe some _____ PLURAL NOUN just want to _____ VERB at birds, at their _____ PART OF BODY, PLURAL and _____ ?
_____ PART OF BODY, PLURAL